

Mask my Habitat

Captured in the beautiful valley of Wied Qirda was this disposable face mask. The ear loops of the mask had got tangled in the branches of the lush vegetation. A number of organisms were observed crawling around in the mask. It was as though they were making this foreign, pollutant object their new habitat.